OUTLOOK

- T&D work activity primarily consists of small to medium-sized projects, with some larger transmission, HVDC, and utility scale solar projects; and we continue to execute routine maintenance work under long-term MSAs. Drivers for T&D spending remain intact.
- C&I projects have had slight impacts due to supply chain disruptions though budgeting and bidding activity remains strong, specifically in the core markets we serve.
- Strong start first half with record LTM revenues and EBITDA.
- Stimulus packages and infrastructure bills could promote increased spending and both MYR Group business segments are well-positioned to benefit from this.
- Strong balance sheet with $310.3M in availability under our $375.0M credit facility, funded debt to LTM EBITDA leverage of 0.3x, which management believes is adequate liquidity to support our working capital needs, equipment investments and growth initiatives.

T&D MARKET DRIVERS

STRONG LONG-TERM OUTLOOK

- Aging infrastructure, system hardening, grid reliability, and clean energy projects continue to serve as key drivers for continued investments in transmission infrastructure, which is the backbone of a reliable, resilient, and clean electricity system.
- The $1.2 trillion Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act (IIJA) will invest significantly in our nation's infrastructure over the next decade, including the electric grid and energy infrastructure. Over five years, $73 billion is planned for energy and power including the DOE's "Building a Better Grid Initiative" designed to support building long-distance, high voltage transmission. The DOE announced that the $2.5 billion Transmission Facilitation revolving loan program will begin accepting proposals for capacity contracts this fall. (energy.gov and energymonitor.ai; May 2022).
- With added goals to bring the U.S. to 100% clean electricity by 2035, this transition will require significant investments in T&D infrastructure.

U.S. investor-owned electric utilities will make about $140B in capital investments annually from 2021-2023 — higher than at any point in the last decade — as they roll out clean energy technologies and work to decarbonize the grid.

C&I OUTLOOK

ACTIVE MARKET

- Despite adverse effects of inflation and supply disruptions, our C&I segment sees steady bidding opportunities in our core markets including healthcare, clean energy, transportation and data centers.
- The Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act (IIJA) will direct $284 billion toward transportation, including $110 billion for roads and bridges, and $174 billion toward airports, transit and other areas which could accelerate C&I project activity. This funding has started to flow to the states. In March, the administration said $110 billion had already gone to the states to support 4,300 projects. Most recently, the Dept. of Transportation awarded $1 billion in grants for airport terminals, $368 million for rail improvements, and nearly $20 million for shipyards. (naco.org, enr.com, whighouse.gov and transportation.gov; March, May and July 2022).
- The Dodge Momentum Index jumped to 173.6 (2000=100) in June pushing the measure to a 14-year high -- a sign that developers feel that projects still have hope of moving forward, despite concerns of an impending economic slowdown (July 11, 2022).
- The American Institute of Architects reported a 53.2 reading in their June Architecture Billings Index – representing continued growth at a modest pace after a burst of stronger growth in the spring (June 2022).

MARKET OPPORTUNITIES

GROWING RENEWABLE GENERATION MIX

- The generation mix across the U.S. is changing as traditional baseload generation resources retire and renewable generation provides an increasingly large percentage of demand.
- The current administration is promoting renewables development through several federal actions including record-breaking offshore wind lease sales, port investments to develop areas for manufacturing and staging hubs for offshore wind components, and working to fast-track solar, wind and geothermal projects onshore (whitehouse.gov, January 12, 2022).
- The Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act (IIJA) directed $5 billion to the National Electric Vehicle Infrastructure (NEVI) formula grant program. States must submit their charging infrastructure plans by Aug. 1, to be considered. (highways.dot.gov, February 2022)
- The EIA's July Short-Term Energy Outlook forecasts the largest increases in U.S. electricity generation to come from renewable energy sources, mostly solar and wind. They expect renewable sources will provide 22% of U.S. generation in 2022 and 24% in 2023, up from a share of 20% in 2021. (eia.gov, July 12, 2022)
- In 2022 and 2023, the EIA expects 44GW of new utility-scale electric generating capacity to be added to the U.S. power grid -- almost half of the planned 2022 capacity additions are solar. (eia.gov/outlooks/steo, April 12, 2022). U.S. utility-scale battery storage capacity is expected to grow by 5.1 GW, or 84% (eia.gov, January 10, 2022).

UTILITY-SCALE SOLAR

In 2021, the US solar market installed record solar capacity and utility-scale solar had its biggest year yet at nearly 17 GWdc installed, more than double the utility solar installations from just two years prior. Utility-scale solar is expected to continue to grow in the double-digits, adding a total of 123 GWdc by 2027 and 244 GWdc by 2032, though Q1 2022 saw lower installation rates due to supply chain constraints and shipment delays (seia.org; March and June 2022).

EBITDA is a non-GAAP financial measure that is defined as Earnings Before Income Taxes, Depreciation and Amortization.

Note:

LTM diluted weighted average shares outstanding were determined by adding the average shares reported for the last four quarters and dividing by four.

EBITDA is not recognized under GAAP and does not purport to be an alternative to net income as a measure of operating performance or to net cash flows provided by operating activities as a measure of liquidity. EBITDA is a component of the debt to EBITDA covenant that we must report to our bank on a quarterly basis. In addition, management considers EBITDA a useful measure because it eliminates differences which are caused by different capital structures as well as different tax rates and depreciation schedules when comparing our measures to our peers' measures.
